Create a search strategy

Pick your topic – “Cobh in the 19th century”

Narrow it to find keywords – eg.
“buildings in Cobh”

Be aware of synonyms (buildings vs built heritage vs architecture) and alternative names (Cobh vs Queenstown)

Think about your sources – do you want photographs?
Maps? Oral histories? News

Effective searching

Read the Help section – catalogues and repositories are not Google

Use Boolean search if it's available (AND, OR, NOT)

Search phrases if possible (using quotation marks)

Try singular versus plural terms

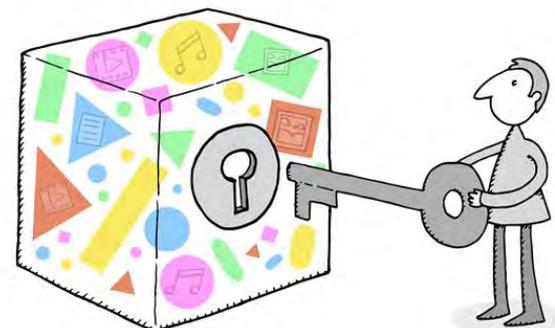

Effective searching

Constrain geographically or by time period

Constrain to online resources

Constrain by media type or institution

Time and place facets on the Digital Repository of Ireland

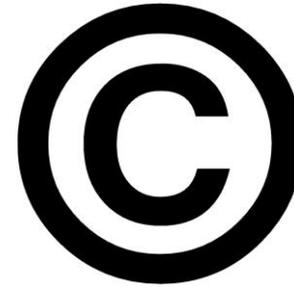

Finding information versus reusing media

Material which is found online isn't free of copyright

Openly published doesn't mean openly licensed

Always clear copyright OR

Find openly licensed sources and use attribution if requested

Copyright versus licensing

Copyright – intrinsic, on creation. An area of Intellectual Property law which covers original creative works including literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works, film, sound recordings, broadcasts and the typographical arrangement of published editions, computer software and non-original databases, and performances.

Copyright exists from the moment the work is created, and does not require any registration of the work.

Generally, copyright covers a work until 70 years after the death of its creator.

Original objects, digitised objects, metadata

Copyright versus licensing

Licensing – giving permission for the use and reuse of copyrighted material – for specific purposes, people, territories or durations.

Applying a licence can pre-approve certain uses of the work, without requiring the user to contact the copyright holder.

Licensing a work does not relinquish or negate its copyright protection.

Licensing may require a user to credit or give attribution to the original creator or copyright owner.

Licensing content

Creative Commons licences – a suite of free, standardised licences which encourage the sharing and reuse of creative works.

- CC-BY (Attribution)
- CC-BY-SA (Attribution-Share Alike)
- CC-BY-NC (Attribution-Non Commercial)
- CC-BY-ND (Attribution-No Derivatives)
- CC-BY-NC-SA (Attribution-Non Commercial-Share Alike)
- CC-BY-NC-ND (Attribution-Non Commercial-No Derivatives)

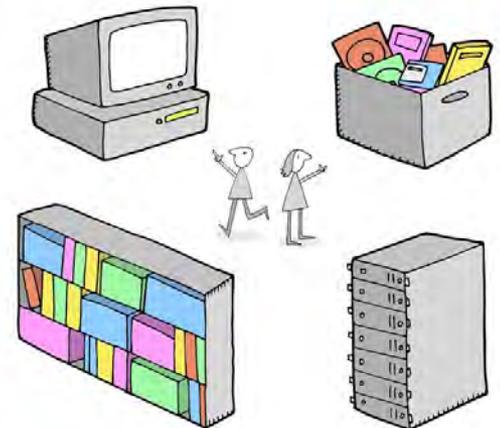

Conclusions

Create your search strategy before you begin.

Searching online can be a good starting point but don't assume everything that exists is accessible on the web.

Talk to information professionals.

European and international websites may have information on your topic, eg. Library Archives Canada, the UK National Archives.
